1. What are cookies

Cookies are small text files stored on a user's device when visiting a website. They help the website function correctly, remember certain technical settings and obtain statistical information about website visits.

2. What cookies may be used

The website may use the following categories of cookies:

Strictly necessary cookies. These cookies are required for the correct operation of the website, security, form submission and basic website functionality. These cookies are not used for advertising or analytics.

Analytics cookies. The website may use Google Analytics to obtain statistics about website visits, such as the number of visits, viewed pages, device type, browser and approximate user region. This data is used to analyse website performance and improve its content and functionality.

3. Google Analytics

Google Analytics is a web analytics service provided by Google. Google Analytics may set cookies to collect statistical information about how users interact with the website.

Information obtained through Google Analytics is used only for statistical purposes and is not used to identify a specific user.

If Google Analytics is used on the website, analytics cookies are set only after obtaining the user's consent, where such consent is required by applicable law or website settings.

4. Cookie consent

When visiting the website for the first time, the user may be offered the option to accept or reject analytics cookies. Strictly necessary cookies may be used without separate consent because they are required for the correct operation of the website.

The user may change cookie settings through the cookie consent management mechanism available on the website, if such a mechanism is implemented, or through the settings of the browser being used.

5. Advertising and marketing cookies

The website does not use advertising cookies, tracking pixels, social media cookies or other tracking technologies for personalised advertising unless this is separately stated in the current version of this Policy.

6. Managing cookies in the browser

The user may manage cookies through browser settings: delete already stored cookies, block their use or configure notifications before cookies are stored. Restricting strictly necessary cookies may affect the correct operation of the website.

7. Cookie retention period

The retention period of cookies depends on their type and purpose. Session cookies are deleted when the browser is closed. Persistent cookies may remain on the user's device for the set period or until deleted by the user.

8. Policy updates
